Manual for Integrated District Planning

- Capability-building of the officials of the District Planning Committee process can transform the whole cognitive framework that drives the traditional community view of the gender aspects.
- Such participation can be highly empowering for the women and can also engender a balanced vision of community development.
- It is therefore necessary that the visioning committee at the district level regularly invites stakeholder representations before arriving at the vision plan.
- Gender specific roles, division of labour and the consequential divergence of concerns and issues should also be captured consciously in all forms of data compilation during a social audit.
- Gender disaggregated beneficiary assessment could be used as a tool across various exercises in the social audit.
- Gender specific roles, division of labour and the consequential divergence of concerns and issues should also be captured consciously in all forms of data compilation during a social audit.
- Special consultations with SHGs, women groups, adolescent girls' groups to fine tune the gender concerns in the sector plans.
